This form is based on the EQ-5D-5L<sup>1)</sup>, with two additional validated questions (specific to orthopedics and the relevant operation) and a validated question regarding level of education<sup>2)</sup>.

<sup>1)</sup> The EQ-5D is a generic measuring tool that uses a standardized, preference-based procedure to describe and investigate health-related quality of life. The survey includes five questions, plus a question about the general state of health independent of medical interventions. The measuring tool is validated and is used internationally.
<sup>2)</sup> International Standard Classification of Education (ISCED) 2011. Operational Manual. Guidelines for classifying national education programs and related qualifications.
